ST SIMON AND ST JUDE, APOSTLES & MARTYRS

Deuteronomy 32.1-4; Psalm 19.1-6; Jude 1-3, 17-25; Luke 6.12-16

Simon and Jude were chosen by Jesus to be apostles, or messengers, to go out and spread the Gospel and the love of Christ Jesus.

All of our readings today tie together this idea of being messengers: from Deuteronomy, "let the earth hear the words of my mouthfor I will proclaim the name of the Lord"; from Psalm 19, "sound has gone out through all the world: and their words to the ends of the earth"; the Epistle provides advice for the mission, while Luke's Gospel gives us the names of Jesus' chosen Apostles.

The Melanesian Brotherhood, MBH, founded in 1925, headquartered in the Solomon Islands and extending over those islands, Vanuatu, Papua New Guinea and the Torres Strait, took the example of Simon and Jude as their patron saints. Melanesian Brothers go out in pairs or small groups to take the Gospel to the people. They live simple lives of poverty, chastity and obedience, and follow Christ's example of prayer, mission and service, working and living with locals.

PP's 24th October

G'Day Mate.

In Australia, those words echo our understanding of friendship and comradery and whilst we use the words "G'day mate" to welcome both new and old friends, we have a strong understanding of what it means to be a mate. If we refer to someone as our mate it generally means they are our friends, we have their back, it is probably a rough way of saying that they care about each other.

When we think about Jesus and his disciples in that context it is not hard to see that the apostles were a team of individuals that came together as mates. They walked together with Jesus supporting him and each other, they were mates. In church we need to also remember to care for each other and to support our fellow travellers as we negotiate all of life's challenges and opportunities.

Reach out to each other, care for one another, show those around us that we are one, that being church is about being a mate to all those around us.

Be a mate for Jesus.

Blessings

Fr Peter

*Some give freely yet grow all the richer;
others withhold what is due,
and only suffer want.
A generous person will be enriched,
and one who gives water will get water.
