Time and Motion Study

Out West, where the sheep run in thousands, one of the flock not there at the end of the day is no great drama. Sheep stick to the flock. They don't like to be separated. Any old Kelpie will tell you that. So don't worry. You probably mis-counted.

It doesn't make sense to leave the flock to the Dingos while you hunt down the possible stray.

And there are some who think of Our Heavenly Father like that. 'how many people are there in the world?...Billions! Does God really involve himself with little old me ?

Our almighty, eternal Heavenly Father is not limited by time or space. God cares about each one of the flock with infinite love, as well as the isolated stray.

We all suffer the tendency to "cut God down to a manageable size". Too often we think of Jesus in such terms. "The Word made flesh" is seen as "compact God" without the distraction of the furthest galaxy. The Saviour's real work as the "Lamb of God" bearing our separation and isolation can become regrettably incidental.

"Look at the birds of the air: they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of more value than they?"

Blessings

Fr Ivan

PENTECOST 14

This fellow welcomes sinners and eats with them. The Pharisees' jibe is something that Jesus may well have worn as a badge of honour. How lucky for us that this fellow Jesus does precisely that. Were it up to our own level of righteousness we would never be able to feast with Jesus, but that is what he calls us to do week by week at the Eucharistic feast. What a joy that is. George Herbert expresses his eagerness for the Eucharist in his 1633 poem, The Banquet:

Welcome sweet and sacred cheer,
Welcome deare;

With me, in me, live and dwell:
For thy neatnesse passeth sight,
Thy delight Passeth tongue to taste or tell.

- Lord Jesus Christ, Priest and Victim in the Eucharistic feast, feed me now and forever. May I always be eager to receive you.
- Give thanks for the work and witness of the Episcopal Church of South Sudan
