† PP's 6th November

Teachability is one characteristic of children to which one can reasonably aspire, it's easy to criticise the snooty attitude of those Sadducees, they had been brought up to consider the likes of Jesus and his disciples as unsophisticated yokels. To their mind, they had the truth and anyone who stuck by an alternative truth, deserved the mockery the Sadducee party dished out to them. So the Messiah cops the well-worn old jibe: The Marriage Paradox.

Notice how Jesus calmly takes on his would-be intellectual assassins. Setting aside any discussion of polygamy and polyandry, the Saviour restates the obvious about the Resurrection to Life Eternal: as there is no more death, there is no need for reproduction. Obvious! Also what should have been obvious is that if God IS the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob (Present Tense). They and all like them are not “has-beens” of history, but presently alive. Embarrassing, if like the Sadducees, you don't believe in eternal life !

PENTECOST 21

When questioned about life after death, Jesus talks to the Sadducees about the God of the living. May we strive to be worthy of that eternal life that God offers us through Jesus.

When you had overcome the sharpness of death, you opened the kingdom of heaven to all believers ... We therefore pray, help your servants whom you have redeemed with your precious blood. Make them to be numbered with your saints in glory everlasting. – from the Te Deum.

Give thanks for the work and witness of the Episcopal Church of Jerusalem and the Middle East.
